

Howard the gecko was camouflaged.

‘I’m not just camouflaged.
I’m the only camouflaged creature in the rainforest!’

‘Ouch!’

said something on the branch.

But Howard didn’t hear.

‘Look at me now . . .

‘now . . .

‘and
now!’

‘Sometimes I think I’m SO brilliantly camouflaged,
I really deserve a prize.’

Something fluttered around Howard’s head
and flew away.

But Howard didn’t notice.

‘Bees, beetles, birds, butterflies ...
It’s just that you can’t see us.

‘You’re too busy noticing yourself!’

Howard groaned.

‘But if I’m not the most camouflaged creature in the rainforest, then what am I?’